Disclosures. Following is a brief description of these risks. Please see the prospectus for a complete listing and a description of the principal risks. Stock market risk: stock markets have periods of rising prices and periods of falling prices, including sharp declines; common stock risk: an adverse event may have a negative impact on a company and could result in a decline in the price of its common stock; manager risk: poor security selection may cause the Fund to underperform relevant benchmarks; financial services risk (DNYVF only): investing a significant portion of assets in the financial services sector may cause the Fund to be more sensitive to problems affecting financial companies; foreign country risk: foreign companies may be subject to greater risk as foreign economies may not be as strong or diversified. As of December 31, 2018, the DNYVF had approximately 24.4% of assets invested in foreign companies and DOF had approximately 26.0% of assets invested in foreign companies; foreign currency risk: the change in value of a foreign currency against the U.S. dollar will result in a change in the U.S. dollar value of securities denominated in that foreign currency; emerging market risk: securities of issuers in emerging and developing markets may present risks not found in more mature markets. As of December 31, 2018, DIF had approximately 58.5% of assets invested in securities from emerging markets and DGF had approximately 47.3% of assets invested in securities from emerging markets; large-capitalization companies risk: companies with $10 billion or more in market capitalization generally experience slower rates of growth in earnings per share than do mid- and small-capitalization companies; mid- and small-capitalization companies risk: companies with less than $10 billion in market capitalization typically have more limited product lines, markets and financial resources than larger companies, and may trade less frequently and in more limited volume; depository receipts risk: depository receipts involve higher expenses and may trade at a discount (or premium) to the underlying security; fees and expenses risk: the Fund may not earn enough through income and capital appreciation to offset the operating expenses of the fund; and headline risk: the Fund may invest in a company when the company becomes the center of controversy. The company's stock may never recover or may become worthless.

Large Cap Core funds invest at least 75% of their equity assets in companies with market capitalizations (on a three year weighted basis) above Lipper's USDE large cap floor. Large Cap Core funds have more latitude in the companies in which they invest. These funds typically have average characteristics compared to the S&P 500 Index. International Multi-Cap Growth funds invest in a variety of market capitalization ranges without concentrating 75% of their equity assets in any one market capitalization range over an extended period of time.
